Lab School Paris is an innovative, bilingual, community-based, secular school. In 2024-2025, it welcomed 122 students from the 1st to the 11th (IB) grade. Its pedagogy is inspired by the contributions of pioneers in educational innovation such as John Dewey, Célestin Freinet, Paulo Freire and Maria Montessori, as well as current research (educational sciences, psychology, sociology, cognitive sciences).

The school is recruiting a part-time bilingual teacher to teach economics in IB classes 1 and Terminale. Previous experience of teaching an IB high school class is essential.

The teacher will work as part of an international team of French- and English-speaking school and college teachers, a collegial management team, a communications officer and an administrative manager.
